Governor Jennings will not make the grade next year.

The Gorman boom seems to be booming right along.

Do not violate the game laws. Get posted and obey.

Cleveland is a remarkable man, but he is not needed in Washington.

Closing saloons in Gainesville has injured business—the saloon business.

Tampa parents know where to send their boys to school—they send them to Gainesville.

"Some wicked fellow," says an exchange, "has said that the trouble with Carrie Nation is that she cannot let whiskey alone."

Ten lawyers have been employed to defend James H. Tillman, murderer of Editor Gonzales, of South Carolina. Tillman realizes that his case is a bad one.

A brother editor commenting on ladies raising their skirts when walking says: "Ladies in this town raise their skirts while walking, and it's all right as far as we can see."

Jacksonville seems to be taking the lead in the matter of terrible and unprovoked murders just now. There should be more hangings over there, and the hangings should not be confined to negroes.

If people would always talk as they expect to vote, there would be fewer candidates. Many candidates are fooled into becoming such by the flattery of voters, and such practices on the part of voters are wrong.

"The leadership of Booker T. Washington may be unsafe," says the Chicago Evening Post, "but at its worst it cannot be so bad as the leadership of those who will gain control of any political organization of the blacks."

If Russia will continue to murder Jews, and Turkey will not cease murdering Christians; it might be a blessing to the world of mankind if the Russians and Turks could be turned loose on each other until both empires became depopulated.

Fildes should not think of suing any of the papers about what has been said about his visit to Raspberry Park, but rather he should think of suing the proprietor of the saloon from which the bad liquor that "done him up" was secured.

Editor Jordan, of the Punta Gorda Herald, says he is pained to learn from some of his exchanges that Punta Gorda was wiped off the map by the recent storm. He says the town is still there—trees, roses, houses, dogs, children, etc., and he wants the town restored to the map.

Why should some of the State papers be advising the future governor to retain the present governor's private secretary? Mr. Dickinson is doubtless a good and competent man, but we are not one who believes Governor Davis will need any advice about who to select as his private secretary.

According to the St. Augustine Record it is a very hard matter to get together enough of the members of the St. Augustine city council to form a quorum. Why should men ask for, or even accept an office if they are unwilling to perform the duties of the office? Such neglect of duty on the part of officers is wrong.

When Alachua county gets a few hundred miles of hard road constructed, every business man and farmer owns an automobile, and we get to traveling in town and country with such rapidity that the mile posts along the highways present an appearance similar to that of a fine tooth comb, our country will be a strictly up-to-date section of the greatest country on earth.

WE STILL LIVE.

The Punta Gorda Herald last week devoted a column and a quarter of editorial space to a "doing up" of the GAINESVILLE STAR and Tampa Herald, but after all this, we still live.

The Punta Gorda Herald seems to think it terrible that the Star, and the Tampa Herald should have called attention to the facts that Stockton has made charges against Taliaferro that will injure that candidate's chances for nomination if they go unchallenged, and that so far they have not been refuted, and then that paper confesses and declares as follows: "The Herald is not authorized to deny or to refute Mr. Stockton's accusations, but it has considered those most persistently presented and has arrived at the conclusion that, if true, there is nothing in them discreditable to the personal or political character of Mr. Taliaferro."

Now, if the voters of Florida thought about the matter as the Punta Gorda Herald claims to think, it would be good and well for Mr. Taliaferro; but they do not think that way; he must deny the charges or the voters will believe them true, Editor Jordan's opinion to the contrary notwithstanding.

PROUD OF HIM

It is gradually being admitted even by the opposition that the Hon. J. N. C. Stockton's speech at Punta Gorda was a brilliant one. It is an able exposition of the dishonest methods of the corporation element in Florida for a number of years. Mr. Stockton has been the leader of the people's cause all these years and no man is better able to give the history of past contests than he. A less determined, and less forceful man would have despaired under the defeats which the people's cause met, but John Stockton was a leader worthy of the title, and he kept on until we have won almost completely. He is a man who it may be said never sleeps when he is on trial of the opposition, and this is the kind of a man whom the people of Florida want to represent them in the United States senate. He is a born leader and when he gets to the senate, Florida will be proud to own John Stockton as her Senator. —Madison Recorder.

WITNESS AND BAPTIST.

The Baptist Witness speaks of the Southern Baptist as "That Stetson Organ," while many think that the "Witness" might, with perfect propriety—be spoken of as "That Forbes Organ." The Southern Baptist has been letting the Witness severely alone, and has grown and flourished. We hardly think Brother Porter will succeed in picking a quarrel with Brother Holley, nor do we think the manner in which the Witness is being conducted with reference to the Forbes-Stetson affair is doing any good to the cause of religion, education or peace. Dr. Forbes has resigned from the presidency of Stetson University, and every real friend of the institution would like to see the Forbes-Stetson controversy—a now purely personal matter between those two individuals—settled outside of the church and the school.

MAJORITY RULE.

There was a time when we were a firm believer in the plurality rule in primaries, but since considering the fact—of which we became convinced about fifteen months ago—that when only a plurality vote is required to nominate a candidate corruptionists can easily manage matters so as to insure a split up of the vote opposed to their interests, while they themselves center on the object of their desire and thereby cause the defeat of the best men, we are as firm a believer in the majority rule as we once were in the plurality rule. With the primary, and not designing politicians, are masters of the situation.

A business man in Levy county is just waiting to see if Gainesville is going to stay dry. He says he wants to bring his family here if the liquor election contest case is decided in favor of the temperance element and the saloons are kept closed, but he won't bring them if there's any danger of the saloons being opened again. Well, Jim, you can bring your family on; Gainesville will stay dry; the licensed saloon dies hard, anywhere, but here in Gainesville it is dead, dead, dead.

WAS NOT TOO BUSY.

"In view of the fact that Gov. Jennings withheld his announcement as a candidate for the United States Senate for several months for the alleged purpose of avoiding any conflict with his official duties as the chief executive of the State," says the Tallahasseean, "and in view of the further fact that great stress was laid upon the allegation in his press announcement, made several weeks ago, that his candidacy should in no way interfere with his obligations to the people of the State as their Governor, we rise to ask: Whose interests have been most conserved by his long 'official' visit to the encampment of the Florida State troops at Jacksonville, the expenses of which it is presumed the taxpayers of the State are footing? Is it not a fact that the interests of the people at large could have been much better served at the capital? And is it not reasonable to suppose that it would have cost the State a much less sum for him to have made the usual short 'official visit' and then returned to the capital? Is it not true that with other expenses the cost of maintaining the 'staff,' for all the time unnecessarily spent at the encampment, would have been saved altogether? Some of the good people who are preaching Jennings' economy will please answer."

Now, boys, when you are asked by the grand jury about that whiskey you've been buying at blind tigers—as you will be asked next week—just tell the truth about it, or you may get into right about the middle of a mighty awkward position. It is known by others that you have been buying liquor from blind tigers—we have cautioned you about it but you did it any way—so you would better spit out the truth when on oath next week.

Why should we vote for J. M. Barrs for Congress from the Second Congressional District? Because he is one of the most sincere lawyers in the South. Because when he engages in some big undertaking it is in the interest of the masses, and because he never lets up until he wins the fight—until he gains a victory for the people. How do we know these things? His past record proves them.

The papers supporting Taliaferro's candidacy are not calling that gentleman "Our Business Senator" so much of late, and many people who have been denouncing Stockton's Punta Gorda speech are now ready to speak of it as a magnificent one. Things are changing, and in the end will come out all right.

The good citizen who goes on a criminals bond because he feels sure the criminal will not run off and leave the bondsman to pay the money, often unintentionally encourages crime. If the criminal could be made to know that good citizens will not go on his bond there would be fewer crimes committed.

In the town of Chipley, Washington county, Florida, during the last year that licensed saloons were there eighty-seven cases of drunkenness were docketed, and after the county went dry there was one period of ten months during which there was not a single arrest for drunkenness.

If Mr. John N. C. Stockton were to open his barrel instead of his pepper box he might catch more votes.—Ocala Banner.

Does the above mean that Editor Harris wants to get a little "subsidy"? Lookout, now, Brother Frank.

One week from today (next Tuesday) His Honor Judge Wills will convene court here. Let those who have business in the court take due notice and govern themselves accordingly.

Bishop Turner, of Georgia, one of the greatest negroes in the world, believes that separation is the only way to settle the race problem.

Oranges are already being shipped from Florida. Alachua county has several nice groves well fruited this year.

Diamonds, rubies and sapphires are said to have been discovered in Liberia.

When you come to court next week remember to bring that little you owe THE STAR.

STATE PRESS CLIPPINGS.

As there is only one "Sheets in the wind," Superintendent Holloway need not have much apprehension.—Orange County Citizen.

Thus far John Stockton has held his own in the campaign. He has the faculty of looking out for his wife's husband.—Palatka Times-Herald.

Dr. Forbes, of the Stetson University, has resigned, and the trustees think the outlook is bright for a very large attendance.—Suwannee Democrat.

Alachua is growing. On almost every side can be seen new buildings, and improvements. No town the size of this can show a greater percent of new buildings.—Alachua Hustler.

The Tribune has received complaint that resorts not far from the city are permitted to sell liquors on Sunday—and not with meals either. The officers should make no exceptions in this closing crusade.—Tampa Tribune.

The many friends of ex-Governor H. L. Mitchell, now county treasurer, all over the State, will be grieved to learn of his continued illness. The Courier trusts that he may be speedily restored to health and strength.—Plant City Courier.

Hon. W. M. Holloway, Superintendent of Public Instruction for Alachua county, is announced by the Palatka Times-Herald as a candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction. With Mr. Holloway as a candidate it is our opinion that Mr. Sheets will have his time about filled to prevent defeat.—White Springs Herald.

John N. C. Stockton's broadside shot that certain Florida newspapers are "subsidized" may or may not be true. No doubt, some of them would like to be. Anyway, the pepper box has put a lot of them to sneezing, and it looks as though where there is so much smoke there "must be a little fire." The squirming is really funny.—Florida Labor Journal.

Jno. N. C. Stockton is getting some hard blows from the country press, but he is also getting many pretty bouquets which offset the "knockers." In the meantime Mr. Stockton is jogging along in his usual trend, disseminating campaign literature and winning votes, which, when counted, will prove more than one man's Waterloo, and it won't be Stockton's, either.—Florida Labor Journal.

In last week's issue of the Florida Crescent the editor informs us that Gov. W. S. Jennings is to be "triumphantly nominated next year" for United States Senator because of his "magnificent record as Governor; also because he is a great friend of the people, being, according to the Crescent, 'fancy free and heart whole as to the corporations.'" Now, if this be true, why was it that he signed the infamous Flagler divorce bill? Why did he not use his veto knife on that? He dared not do it.—Live Oak Democrat.

The "great and good" Times-Union refers to "Some of the little scab papers in this State." While the Democrat has no knowledge as to whom it refers, the reference is undignified and unworthy the utterances of a State journal. The Times-Union should be a model of chaste language and elegant expression, but can never succeed while it allows such expressions to escape the blue pencil. Editor Wilson should order a supply of muzzle and press censors.—Suwannee Democrat.

Mr. Stockton is not a polished or really eloquent orator, but he is better, he is an earnest, honest speaker, who has heart to heart talks with the people and with the energy of saying what he sincerely believes, he gives his plain, everyday words a propulsion that sends them to the hearts of his hearers, where they find a lodgment. He speaks of things that have meaning, and therefore are interesting to the everyday citizen of the commonwealth on the most vital questions that confront the nation, how the gigantic trusts and monopolies shall be legally and equitably controlled so that a favored few shall not reap the increment that labor, co-operating with capital, produces.—Ocala Star.
